PASSION
FOR LAW REFORM

Foreword by Stevie Cameron

“Nancy comes from an interesting background, not only in practicing law but being interested in social justice. Her great ability is understanding and describing how and why people behave as they do.”

— Hon. Anne Rowles, former judge of the B.C. Supreme Court and the B.C. Court of Appeal

“Nancy’s memoir provides insightful observations on human nature, law, as well as cases and causes in which Nancy was involved, or led the way. A fascinating read.”

— Hon. Patrick LeSage, former Chief Justice of the Ontario Superior Court of Justice

Passion for Law Reform

By Nancy Morrison

Foreword by Stevie Cameron

Lawyer • Arbitrator • Judge • Political Activist • Feminist

FIFTY YEARS in a law profession she loves, twenty-four spent as a judge, Nancy Morrison is a storyteller and trail-blazer. Entertaining, at times warm and witty, this memoir also reminds us of dark times, of the ever-relevant social and political issues of the day, and the need for law reform. Here is a life that was never dull, including the twenty-four years Nancy shared with actor Bruno Gerussi.

Benched is a must-read for members of the law profession, written by one of their own, and for students who may be considering Law as a career. In addition, for women and other minorities, the book is a reminder of our history, when today’s rights were not a given.

About Nancy Morrison

Nancy Morrison practised law and adjudicated in Ontario, Saskatchewan, British Columbia, Yukon and the Northwest Territories. As a judge, she served nine years on the British Columbia Provincial Criminal Court, 1972 to 1981, and later, fifteen years on the Supreme Court of British Columbia. Raised in Yorkton, Saskatchewan, she now lives in Vancouver, B.C.
